Health of people ON THE MOVE

Access to health for refugees en route and in the Netherlands

THE MORNING SESSIONS

- Tammam Aloudat, Deputy Medical Director at MSF-Switzerland, will set the scene with an overview of the health (status) of refugees in countries of origin and the challenges they face en route to Europe
- Pinar Okur, Researcher at Rutgers, will present results of recent research on sexual and reproductive health and rights of people on the move, both in country of origin and in the Netherlands
- Aram Hassan, Psychiatrist at the Centrum '45, Psychiatrists Without Borders, will focus on building resilience, mental health and cultural-sensitive care of refugees and migrants
- Simone Goosen (GHOR, AMC/Social Medicine) will provide an overview of existing knowledge about the health status of asylum seekers and refugees in the Netherlands
- Chair of the day, Maria van den Muijsenbergh (General Practitioner, Pharos) will lead the closing debate of the morning session

THE AFTERNOON SESSIONS

- Uniting Streams facilitate Scientific Research Presentations of young researchers, and ShareNet on linking policy and practice in SRHR research
- Rachel Ploem working with Rutgers questions patterns of gender stereotyping of refugee and migrant populations in the Netherlands
- The MSF session combines the presentation of research by Iro Evlampidou on the health status of transiting refugees and migrants on the Balkan route in 2015, a short film and discussion with the MSF coordinator in Jordan
- Inke Schaap representing the Johannes Wier Foundation, the foundation on health care and human rights, will discuss human rights implications of the refugee crisis
- The NVTG working parties TROIE and WHIG will define the profile of health care providers responding to the specific needs of migrants arriving in the Netherlands
- Susan Hahné from the National Institute for Public Health and the Environment (RIVM), together with Radboudumc and GGD Gelderland-Zuid, will explore the contours of infectious disease prevention and control in asylum seekers' centres in the Netherlands

The day will CLOSE with the chair's reflections and identification of critical issues to improve health care and the health status of people on the move

ONE MILLION PEOPLE FLED WAR

War and conflict forces people to leave their country of origin behind and take the road to safe places. According to UNHCR data over a million refugees fled war and insecurity in 2015 and arrived in Europe. Migration routes expose them to mental and physical health risks, as health services are overburdened or otherwise incapable of responding to the needs of refugees.

The symposium HEALTH OF PEOPLE ON THE MOVE focuses on the health problems people face during their travels and upon arrival in the Netherlands. In particular, themes such as coping with trauma and mental health, sexual and reproductive health and rights, health seeking behaviour, and health systems responses in the countries of origin, en route, and in the Netherlands will be addressed.
